

Filtered by:

All Highlight Colors X

Part 6 Value

Highlight • Page 311

These answers reflect two different answers to the Value Question: Could you live a good life in virtual

Highlight • Page 313

We want to be importantly connected to reality, not to live in a delusion.”

Highlight • Page 313

In the experience machine, we’re not courageous or kind; we’re not any sort of person. We’re just indeterminate

Highlight • Page 313

In the experience machine, we’re limited to a human-made reality. Everything we experience was constructed

Highlight • Page 314

First, you don’t know you’re in the experience machine while you’re in there, but you know you’re in

Highlight • Page 314

Second, the experience machine preprograms all your experiences, but the reality machine does not.

Highlight • Page 314

the reality machine allows your friends and family to share a reality with you.

Highlight • Page 314

VR is not illusory.

Highlight • Page 314

In his 2000 Forbes article extending the experience machine to real-life VR, he said that the contents

Highlight • Page 315

VR is not preprogrammed. Typically, it’s open-ended.

Highlight • Page 315

So users can indeed be genuinely courageous or genuinely kind in the reality machine.

Highlight • Page 315

“Which option would be best for me?”

Highlight • Page 316