Law School Admission Council
662 Penn Street
PO Box 8508
Newtown, PA 18940-8508
USA

Letter of Recommendation Form L2

Submitted Electronically

LSAC.org

APPLICANT: This form must be fully completed and must accompany your letter of recommendation in order for Law School Admission Council (LSAC) to match the letter to your file. Letters received without this completed form or without the recommender's signature will be returned to the recommender.

RE: Jacob Prueter (Pref: Jacob)
LSAC Account Number: L46096450
Previous Last Name:

The purpose for which this confidential letter of recommendation is being obtained is admission to a Credential Assembly Service-participating law school. It will be received and maintained in confidence. If you are admitted and enroll-and if your law school retains letters of recommendation once the admission process is concluded-you may inspect this letter at that school unless you have voluntarily waived this right by electronically signing the following statement:

"I understand that letters of recommendation concerning me will be sent to the Credential Assembly Service-participating law schools to which I apply, and I hereby expressly and voluntarily waive any and all access rights I might have to such letters under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, any state law, or any other laws, regulations, or policies." (Law School Admission Council will not process this form if this statement has been modified or altered in any way.)

This applicant has electronically waived his/her/their right as noted above.

Letter description: For all law schools

RECOMMENDER: The person whose name appears above is applying to one or more Credential Assembly Service-participating law schools. This applicant has requested a letter of recommendation from you, and it would be very helpful if you submit your signed letter as soon as possible. Law schools value your candid appraisal of the applicant's ability, academic and otherwise, to study law, including qualities of mind and character, dedication, responsibility, and readiness for the rigors of advanced academic study. Evidence of overcoming adversity, rising to challenges, and achieving beyond expectations are helpful in assessing candidates for admission. You may wish to include how well you know the candidate and in what capacity, your assessment of the relative strength of the candidate within the reference group in which the candidate is being compared, and how the candidate will add to the diversity of the law school

To submit your letter by postal mail, you must include this form with your signed letter in order for LSAC to match the letter to the applicant's file. Letters received without this completed form or without your signature will be returned to you. Do not send supporting materials (e.g., résumés) with your letter. They will be returned to you. Please complete or correct the lower portion of this form and mail the form and your signed recommendation letter, preferably on letterhead, in a sealed envelope directly to LSAC at the address shown above. If the applicant provides you with an envelope addressed to LSAC and bearing his/her/their return address, please place your signature across the bottom portion of the envelope flap after sealing. Please do not staple your letter to this form.

To submit your letter electronically, access your Applicant Reference account (or create an account if you don't have one) and enter the following ID number: 46096450002907227 37 (Website address: https://applicantreferences.lsac.org)

From: Dr. Montaque F. Reynolds — Visiting Professor of Philosophy
Elizabeth Hall/Philosophy Department
Stetson University
421 N Woodland Blvd #104
Deland, FL 32724
Phone: 206-234-3477
E-mail: MREYNOLDS1@STETSON.EDU

LSAC will only use your e-mail to acknowledge receipt of your letter. This form is included in the law school report.

Letter of Recommendation

2026-10-21

To Whom it May Concern,

I am an visiting assistant professor of philosophy at Stetson University. I defended my dissertation at Saint Louis University in 2024 on moral epistemology. My interests are generally in the areas of mind, epistemology, and aesthetics. I have known Jacob since the first class I taught at Stetson University. He was in my aesthetics class. Since arriving here as a visiting professor, I have taught aesthetics, logic, philosophy of mind, and philosophy of law course. I have had Jacob in each of my upper division courses.

The needs of the student body here at Stetson are unique. Most often, due to pressing financial responsibilities, our students are motivated by financial constraints. They generally view graduation and decisions about courses of study through a lens of though not immediate, economic security. For this reason, our pre-law offerings are often very attractive to our student recruits. Although here at Stetson, it can be difficult to motivate the kinds of aesthetic concerns that have been raised in discussions of beauty more generally, Jacob has always given the same care and attention to these issues as he has to others that more align with his own aims and pursuits. He is always very careful and clear in his ability to focus on and immerse himself in the kinds of debates held by authors who generally had the freedom to engage in such debates. He was always able to appreciate the form an argument took rather than being distracted by the subject matter of the argument.

There are a handful of students that I have had in my classes that were able to ignore their more immediate concerns and focus on reasoning well and Jacob was at the top of this group. In my philosophy of mind course that I am currently teaching, he often asks questions that help to illuminate the issue for the rest of the class. Jacob has always been a great communicator, he asks tough questions in class but does so in a way that helps other students open up. He is a very conscientious contributor, both during discussions and in his submitted work.

He asks questions in such a way that the other students can identify their own struggles with the materials and that gives them a way to understand their own impediments to accepting claims made by the authors we are reading. In each instance he shows himself to be a careful thinker. His assignments are always completed on time and show a high level of attention to detail, not only in his command of grammar, but also in his understanding of the content.

When mistakes are pointed out to him, he follows up with questions, asking for clarity and understanding. He is in our department often as he has a close relationship with his advisor Josh Rust. It is in my opinion, that these personality traits would make him very successful in whatever he chooses to do and an excellent contribution to your institution.